MEASUREMENT IN EVALUATION: CASE STUDY OF THE SELF-ADVOCACY SKILLS INVENTORY

Presented by
Richard Chapman
RichardChapman829@gmail.com

This workshop will provide an overview of the rationale and the process of using measurement in evaluations. First, we will review the basics of psychometrics and scale development. Second, we will discuss self-advocacy skills inventory and how it is being used in an evaluation for a national research project.

For disability related accommodations, please contact Mr. Todd Williams at 813-974- 8351 or twillia@usf.edu.

For parking directions, please visit the parking services website (www.usf.edu/parking_services) or stop at the main USF campus entry/information booth (off Fowler Ave).
